New York, Dec. 13 .- As a Christmas gift the student body of Fordham University, with the aid of the Alumni Association, will present to the college a new gymnasium estimated to cost $25,000. For some time past the facilities for indoor athletics at Fordham have been very nadequate, this being the primary cause that led to the abolition of intercollegiate basket-ball contests two years ago.

HIDDEN BALL TRICK FOOLS CUBANS

During a recent game between Detroit and the Almeadares team in Havana the Cubans were startled by the "hidden ball" trick, which was worked by the Tigers and lost the game for the Cubans. With the bases full in the eleventh inning and with victory in sight for Almendares, Stanage signaled for a wide one and threw to second as rapidly as a streak of lightning, catching the runner midway between that bag and third. That was nothing compared with the next out. Marzans went to second on Pe droso's out and Moriarity, unseen, passed the ball to O'Leary, who played the old, childish trick of the hidden ball, surprising Marzans and touching him out at second. The third and last out of the game was

Rhode Island Avenue school, winning his letter in baseball, football, basket-ball, and track. Scott has been captain of the basket-ball team, and is at present captain of the track team. Last year he turned out a championship basket-ball team, winning all of the Interhigh games. This year he decided not to play basket-ball, but to devote his time to the track. On the baseball team he played left field; on the football eleven right half back, and was picked by the Times for the All-High positon of end. Basketball is his long suit, and he plays a strong game at center. On the track team he represents the school in the dashes. "Scotty," as the boys nicknamed him when he first came to school is eighteen years old, weighs 165 pounds, and stands 5 feet 11 inches. He is a fine student, and the leading candidate for class president. He is popular with his fellows, and his return to school for a post-graduate In the football season just closed

The faculty at Business has taken a liking to "Scotty," as he is one of the few who can enter all the sports and at the same time keep well up in his studies.

Scott is a great-grandson of Gen. Winfield Scott, the famous war hero, and has always been a credit to Business. His loyalty and character make him as one of the few ideal high school athletes in the District.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS DINED. Georgetown Squad Guests of Father Emmett at Rectory.

The final chapter of this year's Georgetown football season finished yesterday with the banquet to the squad in the college refectory. Father Emmett was host to the players and their friends, and treated them to what was voted the most enjoyable part of the season. The victories over Virginia and Lehigh were forgotten in the midst of the feasting.

FIRST RACE—Six furlongs. J. A. Munro, 112 (Goldstein). 7 to 5, won; Manheimer, 103 (Fairbose who attended were President agers, but he denied the report that he had purchased the release of Frank Laporte, of the Highlanders.

With the news that the Boston Nationals had been sold to the Russell syndicate came the unofficial announcement that Fred Tenney would manage the team and play first base; while Fred Lake, who signed to manage the team several weeks ago, would be engaged to pilot the St. Louis Browns next season.
